

My Offer of Individual Life Guidance Services is somewhat similar to some forms of ‘coaching.’

But if you are wanting athletic type coaching like Knute Rockne or Adolph Rupp, look elsewhere!!

It is an interactive process with an individual that has a pressing desire to produce outstanding results (e.g. job, career, relationship, education). It is for clients needing to be more energetic, taking more action, setting better goals, and making better decisions: using undiscovered strengths for optimal success in life!

It honors you as the expert in your life and work: that you are creative and resourceful. You are the expert on your work and life, but you may have blockages that are keeping you from your optimum achievements. It is an ongoing partnership to help you produce great results in your life. It encourages you to self-discovery and achievement: getting you to generate strategies and solutions. But it also holds you accountable and responsible for your actions. My job as life guide would be to listen, observe and customize my approach to your needs, and help you discover the resources, skills and solutions for your success!

Hello: I’m Vincent J. Nerviano, Ph.D.

A Doctorate in Psychology and decades of licensed clinical and counseling psychology practice experience nationwide dealing with interpersonal, job and career issues has shown me that a substantial amount of an individual’s career or job problems, or lack of educational or financial advancement, could have been anticipated, avoided or overcome outside of treatment services! This offering of Individual Life Guidance Services is therefore specifically targeted at overcoming non-clinical obstacles for clients with business, career, job, educational or interpersonal complications who have become very serious about their future and about achieving their maximum performance!
